DETAILED ACTION

Response to Arguments

1. Applicant's arguments, see Remarks, filed 1/9/06, with respect to the rejection(s) of claim(s) 1-20 under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) have been fully considered and are persuasive. Therefore, the rejection has been withdrawn. However, upon further consideration, a new ground(s) of rejection is made in view of Takatsugi et al. U.S. Patent 6,328,551.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

3. Claims 1-9 and 11-19 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Takatsugi et al. U.S. Patent 6,328,551. Takatsugi discloses a controller for controlling a machine according to control programs which are created in an NC program format (col. 4, lines 9-18), comprising: storage means for storing the control programs created in the NC program format in a way that distinguishes between a program to be executed periodically and a program to be executed according to an execution command (col. 4, lines 57-64); conversion means for analyzing the programs stored in the storage means and converting the programs into programs in a form executable by the controller (col.4, lines 57-64); and execution means for periodically executing the program to be executed periodically, converted by the conversion means into the executable form, from the time when power to the machine is turned on until the time when the power is shut down (col. 4, lines 57-64). The Office interprets Takatsugi's distinguishes between programs by storing them in different locations/addresses (Fig. 1, 23 and 37). The Office interprets that converting programs into executable form and executing the program only when the machine is on as inherent to CNC machine control.

Referring to claims 2-6 and 12-16, Takatsugi discloses the controller according to claim 1, wherein the program to be executed periodically controls a sequence of the machine, the machine being a machine tool or an industrial machine (col. 4, lines 19-24). Takatsugi implicitly discloses the controller according to claim 2, wherein the program for sequence control includes signal names of input/output signals for the machine and the controller, addresses of the input/output signals, and control commands for the input/output signals (Fig. 1, 33 and col. 4, lines 19-24). Takatsugi implicitly discloses the controller according to claim 3, wherein the signals names and addresses of the input/output signals are coded with alphabetic characters and numeric characters (col. 4, lines 65-67 and 1-7). Takatsugi discloses the controller according to claim 2, wherein the program for sequence control includes a condition and a control command executed according to the condition (col. 4, lines 56-64). Takatsugi discloses the controller according to claim 1, wherein the program to be executed according to said execution command is a program that controls motion of an axis of the machine (col. 4, lines 57-64).

Referring to claims 7-9 and 17-19, Takatsugi discloses the controller according to claim 1, wherein said storage means stores the program in the executable form, which has been obtained by converting the program to be executed periodically by means of the conversion means, together with, or instead of, the program to be executed periodically (col. 4, lines 19-24). Takatsugi discloses the controller according to claim 1, wherein the conversion means converts the program to be executed periodically into the program in the executable form and stores the converted program in the storage means either when the machine is turned on or when the program is originally stored in the storage means (col. 4, lines 19-24). Takatsugi discloses the controller according to claim 1, wherein the program to be executed periodically is distinguished from the program to be executed according to an execution command by program names of the programs (col. 4, lines 19-24).

Allowable Subject Matter

4. Claims 10 and 20 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
